

To whom it may concern,

This letter is to recommend Erik Smith for a software developer position.

Erik joined the Mogile Technologies team in January 2015 as an intern to work on Chargehub, Mogile Technologies' flagship product. We noticed his ability to adapt very early on when he worked on both the Android and Web codebase. As the internship progressed, it became clear that Erik's leadership skills were going to be a great asset for the web development team and he began to focus more on this aspect.

Erik joined the team full time in the 2015 summer and stayed on part-time during the 2015-2016 school year. He joined the team full time again in the summer of 2016 as the lead web developer. Erik tackled many difficult tasks on the website including frontend, backend and automation scripts. He is able to managed his time well and accomplish tasks by himself. His ability to solve problems on his own is also major asset. Finally, his ability to look at the bigger picture and propose many solutions to a problem or design is also extremely valuable.

Unfortunately, Mogile couldn't keep Erik on board during the school year.

I would highly recommend Erik for any software developer position.

Please do not hesitate to contact me for any additional questions.
